EL PASO REDEEMS HER PLEDGE. —SPLENDID ENTERTAINMENT NOW CERTAIN.

It is a source of the most genuine gratification to read the list of donations to the convention entertainment fund, as published in the HERALD today. The required amount has been practically made up already, and there are others who have not yet had a chance to contribute. It may be seen how comparatively easy it is to make up the requisite amount if every one contributes a little.

It is especially pleasing to see so large a number of names on the list. We all like to see the hundreds and fifties go down, but after all it is the sense of personal interest of a large number of individuals which comes from contributing a share of the expense that makes any project successful.

To contribute toward such a cause is like taking stock in a strong financial company. The returns are certain to be vastly more than the expenditure, and every one who gives may congratulate himself that he has had sufficient foresight to realize where his interest lies.

The full success of the entertainment is now assured. There need be no fear about the proper attention being paid to the visitors. The committees are composed of workers, they are attending strictly to business, and the few days that remain will be utilized in arranging all the little details so that there will be no hitch.

El Paso has come to the scratch in fine shape. Everybody knew she could do it, and it only needed a spur to make her shake herself and get out with the intention of winning everything in sight. Such an occasion as this is of great value in showing our people their own capacity for generosity and hard work. It keeps things moving and puts life into the dearest of us.

As to accommodations for the crowd, it appears that there are easily available about two thousand beds. But if twice that number come El Paso will be able to put them away, and no one need stay away for fear of getting no place to stay.

The finance committee have done noble work. Every member of that committee deserves the thanks of the community. It is the hardest and most thankless job of all. The program committee has laid out a fine series of entertainments, and as soon as everything is under way satisfactorily this committee will add itself to the reception committee and help to carry out the program that has been arranged.

The reception committee must bear the brunt of the business from now on. It will take the completest organization and lots of hard work to take care of the people, and every citizen is expected to join the reception committee in entertaining the people.

Remember that the work that has been imposed upon the reception committee does not absolve any individual not on that committee from doing his part also. The whole city is the host, and every citizen should take it upon himself to see that at least two or three of the visitors have everything they want.

By sticking together and exerting ourselves—every one—just a little, the work may be accomplished with the least amount of friction or inconvenience.

IGNATIUS DONNELLY, who may need to be reintroduced to the gentle reader as the middle of the road-vic-presidential-candidate and Shakespearean-mas, can sling polysyllabic mud himself. In his acceptance of the honor of his nomination for the candidacy he wrote of middle-of-the-roadism:

"The forward movement of God for the blessing of his children against the troglodyte in his cavern, cracking the leg bones of his victim to extract the marrow for the cannibalistic feast." Himself he pictures to be "the eagle in the mountain top high furnished in the fellowship of storms, rather than the beastly reptile in the swamp bloated with filth and sleeping away its wretched existence."

The hopelessness of pinning one's faith to democracy is worded after this fashion:

"Plutocracy will never be overthrown by the democratic party with its head in Wall street and its tail in the Mississippi valley, and we must have a party dreadfully in earnest, in which there is not a single plutocrat."

It must impress every thinking man that the republican party has immeasurably the advantage over its opponents. It is the aggressively right party. It stands for progress along lines that lead to greatness and wealth, national and individual. Its watchword is hope, and there is not as shadow of that miserable low spirited ragging habit of the Bryan party. Its public statements are honest, and its promises are carried out. It is the right party and the powerful party, and ought to have the support of every man who loves his country.

M. WALDECK ROUSSEAU delivered an interesting decision as to the right of a man to work, if he wanted to work. The decision was made in reference to a recent act of the authorities in sending twenty policemen to escort two workmen to a factory while a strike was in progress. M. Waldeck Rousseau argued that a workman who wants to work is as much entitled to the protection of the authorities as the workman who does not want to work. This displeases the socialists of France but it is an important step towards establishing the lawful status of the workman in France.

HAMLIN GARLAND, the realistic novelist, has out Atkinson and out Bryan. In a recent lecture in Wisconsin he grew bitter over the wrongs done the red Indian and the ignominy of western civilization, and had arrived at the point when he asserted that the famous chief, Black Hawk, was a greater man and of more enduring fame than Abraham Lincoln when the long enduring audience cried "enough" and yelled for music by the band.

GENERAL WHEELER says: "I am firmly convinced that the United States is at the dawn of a new and greatly increased prosperity." It is men who believe who achieve prosperity for themselves and help to achieve it for their country. Those who tear down, carp, discourage, and preach hopelessness and failure have their places in the economy of politics, but they are not favored parts.

REPUBLICANISM is boldly for expansion—commercial, territorial, and industrial. The demopops are for contraction of everything except of a forty five cent dollar which they would have Uncle Sam stretch to a dollar dollar.

It is well the republican party took such a firm stand on the gold standard. In no way could the party better retain the confidence of the intelligent public.

It is said that Van Wyck made a mistake in climbing into the ice wagon; he fully meant to get into the band wagon.

TEXAS farmers don't want forty-five cent dollars in payment for their big wheat crop, however much they may admire Bryan.

The anti-trust plank in the republican platform is a most satisfactory declaration. It will meet the wishes of the most rampant, as well as the more conservative antagonists of those trusts that are against public policy.

THE Honolulu newspapers are not so slow. Comments one: "A Tammany parade last month was two hours in passing a given point. It is supposed that the given point was a saloon."

WOLCOTT cuts the demopopulist plank out of a nutshell when he says those partisans are anti-everythings.

WE are invited to "peek in", but, hang it all, we cannot seem to see much even through that open door.

EVERYTHING is in line for a magnificent reception to the visiting teachers and their friends.

Hawaii's First Governor.

Sanford B. Dole, inaugurated June the 14th, governor of Hawaii has served the island ever since 1884. He was appointed to the supreme court, under the island kingdom, was president of the island republic from July 4, 1894, and now is the island territory's first governor. Dole was born at Honolulu in 1844, is a graduate of Williams college and a member of the Massachusetts bar. In 1873 he married Miss Anna P. Cate of Massachusetts. He is a fine looking, tall, upright, white bearded man, patriarchal, benign and pleasant.

Reward for Bobs.

It is probable that Lord Roberts will receive the order of the garter from the queen as reward for his bringing the war to a close in South Africa. The blue ribbon of the order of the garter is the most highly prized gift that the queen could grant. Not more than twenty English nobles of the highest rank have the order and only five members of the queen's own family; the other knights are foreign sovereigns. Lord Roberts is now a baron and there is a difficulty in the way of raising him to an earldom. In the fact that he is far from a wealthy man and would not be financially able to hold up the exalted and expensive title, so the order of the garter and a grant of $50,000 will probably be the extent of his reward. Also because he lost his only son in the war it is thought that the patent of his nobility will be made so that his eldest daughter will inherit the peerage.

Mr. W. S. Whedon, Cashier of the First National Bank of Winterset, Iowa, in a recent letter gives some experience with a carpenter in his employ, that will be of value to other mechanics. He says: "I had a carpenter working for me who was obliged to stop work for several days on account of being troubled with diarrhoea. I mentioned to him that I had been similarly troubled and that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy had cured me. He bought a bottle of it from the druggist here and informed me that one dose cured him, and he is again at his work." For sale by all druggists.

The Grandest Treasure.

One of the fondest, happiest anticipations of a mother's heart is that by her husband's ear, nest toil, and by careful economy on both their parts they shall be able to lay by a little store which the baby when it is grown to manhood or womanhood shall have as its own private possession.

But every wife who expects to become a mother may provide a far more valuable treasure for her little one's future than can ever be contained in any savings bank if she will take the proper care of her own health and physical condition during the time when the baby is expected. And if every husband would feel it his bounden duty to see that all possible means are adopted to carry his wife safely through this critical time, he will help to bequeath to his offspring that health and natural vigor which is the grandest fortune a father can bestow.

"During the past year I found myself pregnant and in rapidly failing health," writes Mrs. W. J. Kiddle, of Hill Dale Farm, (Enosburg Center) Enosburg, Vt., in a grateful letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "I suffered dreadfully from bloating and urinary difficulty. I was growing perceptibly weaker each day and suffered much sharp pain at times. I felt that something must be done. I sought your advice and received a prompt reply. I followed your directions and took twelve bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and also followed your instructions. I began to improve immediately, my health became excellent, and I could do all my own work (we live on a good sized farm). I walked and rode all I could, and enjoyed it. I had a short easy confinement and have a healthy baby boy."

"Favorite Prescription" is the only proprietary medicine in the world invented by an educated physician and scientific specialist for the one specific purpose of restoring health and strength to the distinctly feminine organism. It is a prompt relief and permanent cure for every form of female complaint or weakness.

No remedy relieves constipation so quickly and effectually as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.
